As explained when you were placing your order, this guide is provided as a PDF file that must be printed so you can practice realistically with pencil & paper sample tests. After printing the guide, study the tutorials presented in the first 30 pages and then take the practice tests as instructed to master the speed and skills demanded.

Exam Format Update

The Postal Service began converting all its exams from paper & pencil tests to electronic in late 2008. By late 2009, when this guide was published, all tests except exam 710 had been converted. The 710 exam was still a paper & pencil test as of the publish date of this guide.

They were holding the 710 until last because it is the least used of all Postal exams. Test 710 is primarily used at only two sites … Salt Lake City, UT and Wichita, KS. All the other exams are used nationwide. For this reason, they did not feel compelled to rush the conversion of exam 710 to an electronic test.

Exam 710 will eventually be converted to an electronic test. Depending upon how far the Postal Service has progressed with its conversions when you take the exam, it may or may not be electronic. But even if the exam you take is electronic, this guide will still provide 100% effective test preparation.

You see, in every case when they have converted a paper & pencil test to an electronic exam, the content stayed the same. They did not change anything about the questions or answers. The only differences are that (1) you read the questions on a computer monitor rather than on a piece of paper and (2) you choose answers by clicking a computer mouse rather than by marking with a pencil. Therefore, even if you take the exam on a computer, everything in this guide is 100% accurate and effective except for references to marking with a pencil.

As the Postal Service has changed its exams to electronic, they have also been adding a personality profile section to each of them. This is basically a psychological test to assure that you are not a nut case. Again, depending upon how far the have progressed with their conversions when you take the exam, you may or may not be required to take the personality profile section.

A more detailed discussion of the variables you may experience follows.

Paper & Pencil Test without the Personality Profile Section

If you take the original paper & pencil test without the Personality Profile section, it will be formatted precisely like the practice tests in this guide. Taking the real test will be exactly like taking one of these practice exams.

Paper & Pencil Test with the Personality Profile Section

Depending upon how far they have progressed when you take the exam, it is possible that you may be asked to take the computerized Personality Profile section before taking paper & pencil version of the test. If so, you will be instructed to take the Personality Profile section on your own without supervision. You will use your own computer or any convenient computer (at a friend's house, at the library, etc.).

This section, actually called the Personal Characteristics and Experience Inventory section, consists of over 100 questions that you answer by simply stating how it applies to you. For some questions the answer choices might be “Strongly Agree”, “Agree”, “Disagree”, and “Strongly Disagree”. For other questions the choices may be “Very Often”, “Often”, “Sometimes”, and “Rarely or Never”. For yet others the choices could be “All of the above”, “None of the above”, “Two of the above”, etc. In every case you choose the answer that best reflects your opinion, belief, or experience with the topic discussed.
There are no right or wrong answers for this section. The answer that best reflects who you are is the right answer for you. They will not disclose the scoring formula for this section, but they somehow convert your answers into a numerical score that indicates what type potential employee you might be.

It is not possible to prepare for this section of the exam. The only safe strategy for taking this section is to answer every question honestly and sincerely. You may be tempted to answer in a fashion that you think they want to hear. But don't do it! There are built-in indicators that will expose any attempt at manipulation. Computers score the exam, and the computers are programmed to deduct points when any evidence of manipulation is suspected. If you attempt to manipulate, you will get caught, and you score will suffer. You may think that you can outsmart them, but you cannot.

The fastest way to fail this section of the exam is to manipulate the answers in a fashion you think they want to hear. And by the way, if you fail this section, you fail period. You don’t even get to take the rest of the test unless you pass this section. You must answer honestly and sincerely!

Electronic Test

Here’s what to expect if they have fully converted the 710 to an electronic test when you take it …

• First you will take the Personality Profile on your own just as described above.

• If you pass the Personality Profile, you will be scheduled to take the electronic exam at a supervised test site equipped with many computers so a number of applicants can be tested simultaneously.

• The electronic test will be formatted like the practice tests in this guide. The sections, the timing, the type of questions, the type of answer choices, etc. will be just like the practice tests in this guide. As explained before, the only difference is that you will read the questions on a computer monitor, and you will select answers by clicking with a computer mouse.

• Therefore this guide provides 100% effective preparation of either the paper or the electronic test.
Introduction

Exam 710 consists of two major segments - the Clerical Abilities segment and the Verbal Abilities segment. These two major segments are in turn each broken down into several smaller sections. The final part of the exam is the answer sheet where you mark your answers. To see samples of these parts of the exam, turn to one of the complete practice tests in this guide.

As we prepare for the exam, we will use a proven military strategy that never fails … Divide and Conquer! If we divide the exam into its individual sections and master each section individually, we cannot help but succeed on the exam as a whole.

Specifically, we will (1) review information and test taking tips that apply to the exam as a whole, (2) examine the content of the exam section by section; (3) learn particular test taking strategies for each section; and (4) master the speed and skills needed to excel on each section by using the practice tests in this guide.

Practice is the most important element of your test preparation. You can learn everything there is to know about the exam, but if you do not practice to master the speed and skills demanded, you have gained nothing at all. And, it is imperative that you practice realistically - meaning that you time yourself precisely as you practice. Most sections of exam 710 are rigidly timed speed tests. The speed demanded is incredible. The only way to master the speed required is to time yourself precisely as you practice.

Overview of Exam 710

Test Day Preparations

1. Get a good night’s sleep and have a light nutritious meal before the exam.
2. Do not drink too many liquids before the test. Do visit the restroom before starting your test. This may sound trivial, but it may literally make the difference between success and failure. The exam generally lasts over two hours, and you are not allowed to leave the exam room during the test. You surely will not perform well if forced to take the exam under uncomfortable and distracting conditions.
3. Dress in layers so that you can comfortably tolerate extreme temperatures in the exam room by adding or removing layers of clothing. I have gone to summer testing events dressed in light clothing only to freeze in the exam room due the air conditioning system. I have gone to winter testing events dressed in warm clothing only to be roasted in the exam room due to a supercharged heating system.
4. Leave home early, and plan to arrive at the test site early. Allow time for any conceivable delays (auto problems, traffic congestion, etc.) that you can possibly imagine.
5. Bring pencils - #2 lead pencils - as instructed in your scheduling packet. Usually there are plenty of extra pencils made available at the test site, but don’t automatically assume that such will be true. If you don’t bring your own pencils, and if they don’t provide any for you, how can you take the test?
6. Work diligently on each section of the test until you are instructed to stop. Every second counts. If you finish before time is called, go back to check your answers in that section, but only in that section. Do not ever open your test booklet to a section other than the one where you are supposed to be working at that particular moment. Turning to any section other than the one where you are supposed to be working at that particular moment is grounds for disqualification.
7. On a related topic, do not ever open your test booklets or pick up your pencil until you are instructed to do so. Likewise, immediately stop working, close your test booklets, and put down your pencil upon being instructed to do so. Failure to comply may look like an attempt to cheat and may cause you to be disqualified.
General Test Taking Tips

Successful test preparation calls for knowledge of exam content, test taking strategies, up-to-date practice tests, and commitment. This guide provides everything but the commitment. Thorough and complete test preparation demands dedication, effort, and a drive to succeed.

Following are important points of which you should be aware as you begin your preparation:

• When you take the real exam, and likewise when you take the practice tests in this guide, in every case you will be working with two 8-1/2" X 11" booklets or pages (the very size of this page when printed). One is the test booklet containing the questions. The other is the answer sheet booklet.

• All questions are multiple choice, and the answers are always in the form of a letter - A, B, C, D, or E. You mark answers on the answer sheet by darkening the oval containing the correct answer or letter.

To increase your speed and to avoid getting out of order as you move back and forth between the question booklet and the answer sheet booklet, the booklets should be placed as close together as possible at all times. If both booklets are fully opened, you are working with at least 11" X 34" of paper spread out on top of your table as pictured in the below illustration. The questions and answer spots are so far apart that errors can easily happen.

Your first strategy to avoid this problem is to fold the booklets in half at the stapled seams and place the folded booklets next to each other. This one step cuts the distance between questions and answers by half. Flip the folded booklets over as needed and as you progress through the exam. Then, depending on the positions of the questions and answers, you can usually even lay one booklet partially on top the other, as pictured in the below illustration. Now the questions and answers may be only a few inches apart. This brings the questions and answer sheet very close together for greater speed and accuracy.

Another strategy to avoid getting out of order is to use one of your spare pencils, the side of your hand, or your finger(s) to guide your eyes back and forth between the test booklet and the answer sheet. In essence, you are using one of these items to mark your spot and track your progress as you race through the test. You may even be able to use the top edge of your answer sheet as a guide. But, do not use any thing else (like a ruler or a piece of scrap paper) for a guide when you practice at home. It may be easier, but you will not have access to tools like these when taking the actual test.
Scoring Formula for Individual Sections

All sections of the exam are scored by simply counting your number of correct answers. For example, if you answered 15 questions correctly on a particular section, regardless of how many questions you may have answered incorrectly or left blank, your score for that section is simply a 15.

Should You Guess?

Given this scoring formula, guesses are acceptable. If there is a question that you simply cannot answer, guess! If you get lucky and guess the correct answer, you picked up an extra point. And if you guess wrong, you simply missed a point that you weren’t going to capture anyway if you left it blank. So, why not guess?

Overall Exam Score

We know how they score the individual sections of the exam, but we do not know the formula for the final exam score. They refuse to release the overall exam scoring formula for fear of “compromising the integrity of the testing process”. We do know a few things however … We know that 70 passing and that 100 is the highest possible score (without veterans preference points). And, we know that there are a total of 140 questions on the exam. This means that there are a total of 140 points available if you answer every question correctly within the time allowed. What we do not know is how they convert the number of points you capture into an exam score. It is not a simple percentage. For instance, just because you captured 90% of the available points does not mean that your score is a 90.

How Blank Answers Effect Your Score

Despite what others may tell you, and despite the impression you may get from the scoring formula, blank answers do effect your score. As mentioned previously, there are 140 questions on the exam. Therefore, if you answered every question correctly within the time allowed, you would accumulate 140 points. To make a high score, you need to capture as many of these points as possible. Every point you fail to capture, whether by leaving a question blank or by answering it incorrectly, reduces your final score. You need to correctly answer as many questions as possible and to leave the fewest possible questions blank.

Score Each Practice Test

It is imperative that you measure your performance and progress by scoring each practice test as you complete it. Answer keys are provided after each practice test. Since you cannot come up with a true overall exam score, your goal should be to capture as many points as possible and to increase the number of points captured each time you take another practice test. Never be satisfied with your performance - always strive for improvement.

Can You Write, Make Notes, and Do Calculations on the Exam?

Yes, you can write, make notes, do calculations, etc. during the exam. As a matter of fact, you will be specifically instructed to do so during some sections. However, you can only make notes, do calculations, etc. in the question/test booklet. You are not allowed to make any marks on the answer sheet except the answer choices you darken.

After the Exam … The Keyboarding Test

Those who score well on the exam will be asked to take a keyboarding test at a later date. Since the positions filled from the 710 exam are usually data entry jobs, keyboarding skills are important. Different Postal facilities seem to have different procedures for keyboarding tests and speed/accuracy expectations. However, accuracy is generally preferred over speed. We hear repeatedly of applicants with somewhat slower speed but great accuracy being hired over individuals with great speed but poor accuracy. They will tell you how to schedule your keyboarding test when you take the 710 exam. Applicants are usually given a sample keyboarding test for practicing. If they do not offer you a sample test, ask for one. This is also a good time to ask about the speed/accuracy expectations at that particular facility.
Clerical Abilities Segment

The first segment, Clerical Abilities, consists of 85 questions broken into four sections as detailed below.

Sequencing Section

In this section, each question gives you a name or code in a box followed by a list of four other names or codes in alphabetic and/or numeric order. Some codes are numbers only, while others have letters and numbers. You are to find where, in alphabetic and/or numeric order, the name or code in the box would fit into the list. This may not sound too difficult until you discover that they give you only three minutes to answer twenty questions. This means you have only nine seconds per question to find the answer and then mark it on your answer sheet. The speed required is incredible. Most people are lucky to finish half the questions the first time they try. To give you a better picture, let’s work a few sample questions together.

1. Elgin, Thaddeus
   - A) Algonquin, Leslie
   - B) Belfast, Thomas
   - C) Donnelly, Alicia
   - D) Francisco, Esteban
   - E) Francisco, Esteban

   In this sample question, we are given only names. The name in the box is Elgin, Thaddeus. There are letters - A, B, C, D, and E - before and after each of the names listed alphabetically below the name in the box. We are to decide where the name in the box belongs when compared alphabetically to the others. The name “Elgin” in the box begins with an “E”, so it falls alphabetically between “Donnelly” and “Francisco”. The space between “Donnelly” and “Francisco” is labeled with the letter “D”. Therefore, since the name in the box fits into the space labeled “D”, the answer to this question is “D”, and we would darken the answer “D” on our answer sheet.

2. 06396485
   - A) 06395487
   - B) 06397442
   - C) 06397901
   - D) 06399637
   - E) 06399637

   In this sample question, we are given codes made up of numbers only. There are no letters. The code in the box is 06396485. Notice that the first four numbers in the code in the box and in the four codes listed below the box are always “0639”. This being the case, we can ignore the first four numbers in all the codes and concentrate on the remaining numbers. We quickly see that the number in the box fits in the space between codes “06395487” and “06397442”. The space between these two codes is labeled with the letter “B”. So, the answer to this question is “B”. If we were taking a real test, we would darken the letter “B” on the answer sheet.

3. RCA-1380
   - A) RCE-4400
   - B) RCL-1982
   - C) RCR-0041
   - D) RCS-2212
   - E) RCS-2212

   In this sample question, we are given codes made up of numbers and letters mixed together. The code in the box is “RCA-1380”. All the codes begin with the first two letters “RC”, so we will ignore the first two letters in each code and only concentrate on the third letters and the numbers. We quickly see that the code in the box should be first in our list. It should come before the code “RCE-4400”. The space before the code “RCE-4400” is labeled with the letter “A”. So, the answer to this question is “A”. If we were taking a real test, we would darken the letter “A” on the answer sheet as the answer for this question.

Now that you understand what is expected, let’s discuss a few points that make it more manageable.
As with all sections of the exam, practice is the key to performance. The one and only way to improve your performance is by practicing with the sample tests in this guide. As you practice, sorting the names and codes alphabetically and/or numerically will come more quickly and naturally.

As discussed with our sample questions, it is important to identify and ignore repeating letters or numbers. If the first several numbers or letters are the same in all the names or codes, ignore the repeating items and sort the names or numbers by concentrating on the non-repeating items.

When working with names, if you are given both the first and last names, you are to sort alphabetically using the last name. However, if the last name is the same for two or more of the names - or perhaps even for all of the names - then you obviously must sort alphabetically by the first names.

Comparison Section

Each question in this section is a list of three names, addresses, or codes that are either exactly alike or at least very similar. You are to determine if the three listed items are exactly alike or if they are different in any way. Then - get this - you are to mark your answer (A, B, C, D, or E) based upon the below instructions:

A. If ALL THREE names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
B. If only the FIRST AND SECOND names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
C. If only the FIRST AND THIRD names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
D. If only the SECOND AND THIRD names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
E. If ALL THREE names, addresses, or codes are DIFFERENT.

You've never experienced utter confusion until you have tried to answer the 30 questions in this section within the five minutes allowed. This means that you have only ten seconds per question. The really time consuming part is having to refer back to the instructions again and again after looking at each question so you can figure out which answer choice to mark. As before, most people are lucky to finish about half the questions the first time they try. Let’s look at a few samples to get a better picture of this section.

1. Alfonse Gonzales  Alfonse Gonzalez  Alfonse Gonzales
   1st and 3rd names are alike. 2nd name ends with “z” instead of “s”. Mark answer “C”.

2. 1312 Paquella Dr.  1213 Paquella Dr.  1312 Pequella Dr.
   All 3 different. 1st and 2nd numbers different. 3rd address spelled differently. Mark answer “E”.

3. AR 1422L-3  AR 1422L-3  AR 1422L-3
   All three codes are exactly alike. Mark answer “A”.

4. 8943362  8944362  8944362
   2nd and 3rd numbers are alike. 1st number is different. Mark answer “D”.

The most important preparation you need to do for this section is to memorize the instructions. You simply cannot afford the time it takes to keep going back to the instructions again and again. Memorizing the instructions in an abbreviated numerical form as displayed below is easier for most people:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Memorize</th>
<th>Explanation</th>
<th>Important Note</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>A. 1, 2, 3</td>
<td>All - first (1), second (2), and third (3) - are alike.</td>
<td>Do not write these abbreviated instructions in your test booklet. It will tempt you to waste time by repeatedly looking back. You must work from memory.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>B. 1, 2</td>
<td>First (1) and second (2) are alike.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>C. 1, 3</td>
<td>First (1) and third (3) are alike.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>D. 2, 3</td>
<td>Second (2) and third (3) are alike.</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>E. 0</td>
<td>None - zero (0) - are alike</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Recite these abbreviated instructions to yourself over and over again until you can say them in your sleep. You need to be able to answer the questions immediately without having to look back at the instructions. As before, success calls for practice to master the skills and speed required … and to assure that you have effectively memorized the instructions / answer choices.
Spelling Section

In this section you are given three minutes to answer 20 questions - which comes out to nine seconds per question. For each question, answer choices A, B, and C are possible ways to spell a particular word. You are to select the answer choice (A, B, or C) with the correct spelling, or to choose answer choice D if you believe that none of the above possible spellings (A, B, or C) are correct. Of course, the words they give us to work with are the most difficult ones you can imagine. Again, let's look at a few samples.

1. A) omission
   B) ommision
   C) omision
   D) none of the above
   In this sample, the word is spelled correctly in selection “A”, so we would mark the answer “A” on our answer sheet.

2. A) ostracise
   B) ostracyze
   C) ostrascize
   D) none of the above
   In this sample, none of the spellings are correct, so we would mark the answer “D” on our answer sheet.

To prepare for this section, you should review the following basic spelling principles and lists of words.

Basic Spelling Principles

1. “I” before “E” except after “C” unless it sounds like an “A” as in neighbor or sleigh.
   - “I” before “E” examples: achieve, niece, siege, piece
   - Except after “C” examples: deceive, receive, perceive, deceit
   - Unless it sounds like an “A” examples: neighbor, sleigh, weight, veil, reign
   - Exceptions to these rules: either, neither, seizure, leisure, seize

2. Adding suffixes to silent “E” words
   - Drop the silent “E” if the suffix begins with a vowel (-ing, -y, -able).
     Examples: become / becoming judge / judging
               conceive / conceivable
   - Keep the silent “E” if the suffix begins with a consonant (-ment, -ful, -ly, -ness)
     Examples: achieve / achievement bare / barely sure / sureness
   - Common exceptions to these rules:
     service / serviceable
     notice / noticeable
     enforce / enforceable
     replace / replaceable
     advantage / advantageous
   - Exceptions intended to prevent confusion and/or mispronunciation:
     singe / singeing - to scorch
     sing / singing - to chant
     dye / dyeing - to alter color die / dying - to cease living

3. Adding -ing suffix to words ending with -ye, -oe, and -ee. Do not change the spelling of the word.
   Simply add the -ing suffix per the below examples.
   agree / agreeing see / seeing eye / eyeing
4. Words ending with -cede, -ceed, or -sede: With the exceptions of supersede, exceed, proceed, and succeed, all words ending with this sound are spelled with -cede.

5. Words ending with -ize, -ise, or -yze: Over 400 words end with the sound -ize. If you must guess, choose -ize since it is used far more commonly. The only common words that end with -yze are analyze and paralyze. The ending -ise is found in the following words:

- advertise
- advise
- apprise
- chastise
- comprise
- advise
- despise
- devise
- enterprise
- supervise
- demise
- improvise
- merchandise
- reprise
- enterprise
- supervise

6. Adding the dis- and mis- prefixes to words beginning with an “S”
   - If the word begins with an “S”, there will be two when you add dis- or mis-.
   - Examples: dis + satisfy = dissatisfy
                 mis + step = misstep

Commonly misspelled words: Reviewing the below commonly misspelled words several times will enable you to better visualize the correct spelling when taking the exam. The below list is formatted into ten word groups. Your review may be easier and more effective if you study one or two groups of words per day.

- absence            conscientious         foreign       occasionally     seize
- acceptable         conscious             forfeit       occurrence      sentence
- accessible         criticism            formally       occurring       separate
- accommodate        criticize            formerly      omission       sergeant
- accurate           deceive              genuine       omitted        similar

- competition         finally              necessary     ridiculous
- conceivable         forcibly             noticeable    schedule
Mathematics Section

In this section you have eight minutes to answer 15 mathematical questions, which means that you have just over 30 seconds per question. Each question is an addition, subtraction, multiplication, or division problem. You will be asked to work with whole numbers, decimals, fractions, and percentages. You must solve the problems the old fashioned way with pencil and paper. No calculators are allowed!

Remember, you are allowed to do calculations, make notes, etc. in your test/question booklet. As a matter of fact, you will be instructed to do so, and you must do so, in order to solve the mathematical problems in this section. But, do your calculations only in the test/question booklet. The only marks you are allowed to make on the answer sheet are the actual answers you darken.

You are given five answer choices for each question - A, B, C, D, and E. Answer choices A, B, C, and D are possible solutions to the mathematical problem in the question. For every question, answer choice E is “None of the above”.

Let’s look at several sample questions to give you a better picture of what to expect and to review some basic math principles you need to know.

Sample Questions Using Whole Numbers

You will be asked to add, subtract, multiply, and divide whole numbers similar to the following examples.

1. 23 + 17 =
   - A) 30
   - B) 40
   - C) 50
   - D) 39
   - E) None of the above

   This is simple addition. Adding these two numbers together with our pencil and paper quickly shows us that the answer is 40, so we would mark the answer B on our answer sheet.

2. 89 – 62 =
   - A) 27
   - B) 17
   - C) 29
   - D) 18
   - E) None of the above

   This is a subtraction problem. Subtracting 62 from 89 with our pencil and paper gives us an answer of 27, so the correct answer is A.

3. 29 x 6 =
   - A) 191
   - B) 151
   - C) 127
   - D) 174
   - E) None of the above

   Multiplying these two numbers gives us an answer of 174, so the correct answer is D.

4. 196 / 7 =
   - A) 26
   - B) 24
   - C) 32
   - D) 29
   - E) None of the above

   This is a division problem. They are asking us to divide 7 into 196. The slash “/” means “divided by” … as in 196 divided by 7. This problem could also be written as “196 ÷ 7”. Using our pencil and paper, we find that the correct answer is 28. But, 28 is not one of our choices for A, B, C, or D. So, we mark the answer E for “None of the above”.

Sample Questions Using Decimals
They ask you to add, subtract, multiply, and divide decimals similar to the below examples.

1. $33.4 + 19.7 =$
   A) 47.3
   B) 54.1
   C) 53.1
   D) 67.4
   E) None of the above

   The correct answer is 53.1, so we would mark the answer C.

2. $86.45 - 22.78 =$
   A) 46.22
   B) 39.18
   C) 52.27
   D) 63.67
   E) None of the above

   The correct answer is 63.67, so we would mark the answer D.

3. $13.9 \times 17.2 =$
   A) 239.08
   B) 197.18
   C) 251.38
   D) 221.38
   E) None of the above

   The correct answer is 239.08, so we would mark the answer A.

4. $268.32 / 12.48 =$
   A) 108.23
   B) 21.50
   C) 13.74
   D) 24.44
   E) None of the above

   The correct answer is 21.50, so we would mark the answer B.

---

Sample Questions Using Percentages
They will ask you to do several types of calculations with percentages per the following examples.

1. 15% of 120 =
   A) 22
   B) 31
   C) 18
   D) 19
   E) None of the above

   “Of” means multiply. This problem could also be written “15% x 120”.
   When working with percentages, we must first convert to decimals.
   15% is the same as .15, so we multiply .15 x 120 and find that the answer is 18. So, we mark the answer C.
   (See the review on converting percentages to decimals on the next page.)

2. $53.00 + 8% =$
   A) $57.24
   B) $59.18
   C) $62.24
   D) $64.24
   E) None of the above

   In this question, they want us to figure out what 8% of $53.00 is and then add it back to $53.00. So, first we convert 8% to the decimal .08.
   Then, we multiply .08 times $53.00 and find that 8% of $53.00 is $4.24. Finally, we add $4.24 to $53.00 and discover that the answer is $57.24.
   Answer choice A is $57.24, so we would mark A on the answer sheet.
   (See the review on converting percentages to decimals on the next page.)
3. $95.00 - 30% =
   A) $60.00
   B) $66.50
   C) $33.00
   D) $28.50
   E) None of the above

Here they want us to figure out what 30% of $95.00 is and subtract it from $95.00. So, we convert 30% to the decimal .30. Then, we multiply .30 times $95.00 and find that 30% of $95.00 is $28.50. Finally, we subtract $28.50 from $95.00 and discover that the answer is $66.50. So, we mark the answer B. (See the review on converting percentages to decimals on the next page.)

Converting Percentages to Decimals
A quick review on how to convert percentages into decimals may be beneficial. It has probably been a number of years since most of us were in school and since most of us did conversions like this.

- In a whole number percentage (one that does not have a decimal in it), swap a decimal point for the percent sign and then move the decimal point two spaces to the left. If there are not enough numbers to allow you to move the decimal point two spaces to the left, insert zeros to fill up the blank spots. See the below examples to get a better picture of this process.

  \begin{align*}
  85\% & = .85 \quad \text{(Swap decimal for percent sign and move decimal two spaces to the left.)} \\
  5\% & = .05 \quad \text{(Insert a zero so we can move the decimal two spaces to the left.)} \\
  145\% & = 1.45 \quad \text{(Swap decimal for percent sign and move decimal two spaces to the left.)}
  \end{align*}

- If there is already a decimal in the percentage, simply move the decimal over two spaces to the left and drop the percent sign as displayed in the below examples. Again, if there are not enough numbers to allow you to move the decimal point two spaces to the left, insert zeros to fill up the blank spots.

  \begin{align*}
  19.5\% & = .195 \quad \text{(Drop percent sign, move decimal two spaces to left.)} \\
  86.44\% & = .8644 \quad \text{(Drop percent sign, move decimal two spaces to left.)} \\
  1.38\% & = .0138 \quad \text{(Drop percent sign, insert a zero, move decimal two spaces to left.)} \\
  .05\% & = .0005 \quad \text{(Drop percent sign, insert two zeros, move decimal two spaces to left.)}
  \end{align*}
  \]

Sample Questions Using Fractions
In our experience, the only questions with fractions are multiplication problems like the below sample.

1. 3/8 of 56 =
   A) 14
   B) 33
   C) 28
   D) 21
   E) None of the above

As mentioned previously, “of” means to multiply. They are asking us to multiply 3/8 times 56. First, we must convert the fraction to a decimal. To do so, we divide the bottom number into the top number. When we divide 8 into 3 we get .375. So, we multiply .375 times 56 to discover that the answer is 21. Answer choice D is 21, so we would darken the answer D on our answer sheet.

Converting Fractions to Decimals
As mentioned in the above example, to convert a fraction into a decimal, we divide the bottom number into the top number. But, wouldn’t it save time if we didn’t have to do calculations to convert fractions into decimals? Well, it is indeed possible to skip the calculations and to save this time if we memorize the conversions. Plus, doing these calculations simply adds more opportunities for us to make mistakes. If we memorize the conversions and skip the calculations, we reduce the number of opportunities for mistakes.

As part of your preparation for the Math Section, memorize the below chart of decimal conversions for common fractions. This should not be too difficult because there are only nine conversions to remember. If you have a question on the exam with a mixed fraction like 1-3/8, simply keep the whole number and convert the fraction. So, 1-3/8 would convert into 1.375
Verbal Abilities Segment

The second major segment of the exam, Verbal Abilities, has a total of 55 questions that are broken down into three sections. You are given a single 50 minute period to answer the 55 questions. For most people, speed is not a big issue in this section. As a matter of fact, you are told that you may leave if you finish before the 50 minutes is up, and most people do finish and leave before time is called.

Following Written Instructions Section

The Postal Service claims that this section tests your ability to understand and carry out instructions similar to those you might receive on the job. However, we cannot believe that any sane human being would ever give you instructions as strange, convoluted, and confusing as the wording of these twenty questions. Let’s look at a few sample questions to get a better picture of this section.

1. Draw a line under each letter that appears only once below. Write the letter “R” and the number of lines you drew here: ___ ___

2. Look at the letters in Question 1 again. Draw a circle around each “T”. Write the letter that appears at the beginning of the series of letters and the number of circles you drew here: ___ ___

3. Look at the below letter-number combinations. Draw a circle around the second letter-number combination and write it here: ___ ___

P7 T9 R8 S4 T1 Q2

OK, that’s probably about as clear as mud. Without better instructions, you probably have no idea what they really want you to do or how to answer the questions. As a matter of fact, we are told that many applicants fail this section completely because they never really understand what to do.

By the way, this is really what the Following Written Instructions section is like. We are not making this up. The questions are very similar to the above samples, and there is a Look-Up Table just like the one above.

Here’s the deal … To answer a question correctly, you must accomplish three steps as outlined below.

• First, you must create a preliminary answer based upon the wording of the question. The preliminary answer will be a letter-number combination like this: T 5
• Then, you must find the preliminary answer on a Look-Up Table provided on the exam to find the answer choice (A, B, C, D, or E) that it correlates to.
• Finally, you darken the proper answer choice (A, B, C, D, or E) on your answer sheet.

Now that we know what to do, let’s go on to the next page where we will discuss each of our above sample questions in detail.
1. Draw a line under each letter that appears only once below. Write the letter “R” and the number of lines you drew here: ____  ____

   Here’s what we do … Since “S” and “R” are the only letters that appear only once, we draw lines under the one “S” and the one “R”. Then, as instructed, we write the letter “R” and the number of lines we drew (2 lines - 1 under the letter “S” and 1 under the letter “R”) in the blanks like this:  R 2. We have our letter-number combination … R2. Next we go to the Look-Up Table to find our R2 letter-number combination. We look across the top of the table to find the letter “R”, and then we follow the “R” column down to the “2” row. Answer choice “D” appears where the “R” column and the “2” row meet. This is our answer … “D”. So, for this question, we would darken the answer “D” on our answer sheet.

2. Look at the letters in Question 1 again. Draw a circle around each “T”. Write the letter that appears at the beginning of the series of letters and the number of circles you drew here: ____  ____

   C D E A B
   E A B C D

   As instructed, we draw a circle around each letter “T” from the series of letters in Question 1. Then we write the letter that appears at the beginning of the series (the letter “S”) and the number of circles we drew (3 circles) in the blanks like this: S 3. We have our letter-number combination … S3. Now we go to the Look-Up Table, find column “S”, and follow it down to row “3”. Answer choice “A” appears where column “S” meets row “3”. So, our answer is “A”, and we would darken the answer “A” on the answer sheet for this question.

3. Look at the below letter-number combinations. Draw a circle around the second letter-number combination and write it here: ____  ____

   P7 T9 R8 S4 T1 Q2

   This one is a bit easier. We draw a circle around T9, the second letter-number combination. Then we write the letter-number combination T9 in the blanks. Next we go to the Look-Up Table, find column “T”, and follow it down to row “9”. Answer choice “C” appears where column “T” meets row “9”. So, our answer is “C”, and we should darken the answer “C” on the answer sheet for this question.

As with all the other sections of this exam, success on the Following Written Instructions section calls for practice. The questions are intentionally long and confusing. As much as anything else, you are practicing to learn to simply follow the directions without trying to understand or rationalize them. They make no sense, and they were probably written by someone who lives in never-never land. Don’t try to figure them out, just simply do what you are instructed to do.
Grammar, Usage & Punctuation Section

In this section, there are twenty questions dealing with the proper use of grammar, words, and punctuation. Each question consists of four similar sentences labeled A, B, C, and D. You are to choose the one that is most appropriate with respect to grammar, usage, and punctuation suitable for a formal letter or report. Let’s look at a couple of sample questions to get a better picture of what they expect us to do …

1. A) Automation has increased the efficiency of many Postal functions.
   B) The Post Office’s buying automated equipment has speeded up jobs.
   C) Postal Service benefits from technology.
   D) New Post Office equipment with faster speed.

   The correct answer for Sample Question #1 is A. Sentence A has correct use of grammar, punctuation, words, etc. Sentences B, C, and D all have various improper uses of these elements. So, we would mark answer choice A on our answer sheet.

2. A) Maintenance is better for Post Office vehicles.
   B) Important vehicle maintenance is better.
   C) Consistent maintenance of vehicles prolongs longevity.
   D) Maintaining vehicles is good for the Post Office using automobiles.

   The correct answer is C. Sentence C makes more sense and has better use of grammar, punctuation, words, etc. So, we would mark answer choice C on our answer sheet.

On the real exam, the answer choices will frequently seem more similar than those on the above samples, and it may be more difficult to decide which is the best choice.

Success on this section calls for a review of basic grammar, usage, and punctuation principles and - as always - for practicing to master the skills and speed demanded.

The following refresher course is not an attempt to teach you basic principles. Teaching these principles from scratch would call for an extended course. This is simply a review of principles that you probably learned in school but that you haven’t thought about for years. This review is designed to help you more accurately notice inappropriate sentences that an average test taker would not recognize. The final portion of the refresher course is a list of words that are typically used inappropriately. To effectively prepare for the Grammar, Usage, and Punctuation section of the exam, carefully read and review the principles and word lists in this refresher course.

1. A sentence by definition should express a complete thought or idea. Never select an answer choice that is a fragment or part of a sentence. A complete sentence generally should include a subject and a verb. The subject is the person, place, thing, or idea that is doing or being something. Verbs carry the idea of being or action in the sentence.

2. Subject - Verb Agreement

   • The subject of a sentence must agree in number with the verb. A singular subject (one) needs a singular verb. A plural subject (two or more) needs a plural verb. See the following examples …
     A) The boy rides a bicycle. (“Boy” is singular. There is only one “boy”. The verb “rides” is singular.)
     B) The boys ride bicycles. (“Boys” is plural. There are two or more “boys”. The verb “ride” is plural.)

   • A group of words that comes between the subject and the verb can cause confusion. You must identify the subject and the verb before you can see if they agree. To identify the subject, ask yourself: “Who or what is being or doing something?” To identify the verb, ask yourself: “What is the subject being or doing?” See the following example …
     Mr. Wilson with the approval of the representatives is to chair the committee.
Our first impression when reading this sample might be that the plural subject “representatives” does not agree in number with the singular verb “is”. But, “representatives” is not really the subject. Ask yourself this question: “Who or what is to chair the committee?” The answer is: “Mr. Wilson is to chair the committee.” The subject is “Mr. Wilson”, and the subject is singular, not plural. There is only one Mr. Wilson in this sentence --- there are not two or more Mr. Wilson’s. So, in this sentence, the subject and verb agree in number.

- Confusion may occur when two singular subjects are involved in a sentence, for example “Maria and Rachael”, “Bob or Larry”, “neither the cat nor the dog”, etc. If the two singular subjects are joined by the word “and”, the verb should be plural. If the two singular subjects are joined by “or” or “nor”, the verb should be singular.

- Confusion may occur if there are both a singular and a plural verb in a sentence. If the below joining words are used in the sentence, agreement is determined by the subject nearer to the verb.
  - either / or
  - neither / nor
  - not only / but also
See the following examples …

A) Neither the sergeant nor the men are happy.
B) Neither the men nor the sergeant is happy.

“Sergeant” and “men” are the subjects in both sentences. “Sergeant” is a singular subject and “men” is a plural subject. When the plural subject “men” is nearer to the verb, we use the plural form “are”. When the singular subject “sergeant” is nearer to the verb, we use the singular form “is”.

- When the words “each” or “every” are placed before a singular subject, use a singular verb.

- Use a singular verb when the following pronouns are used as the subject of the sentence.
  - nothing
  - anything
  - everything
  - neither
  - either
  - some
  - each
  - everybody
  - everyone
  - anyone
  - somebody

- The collective pronouns “all”, “any”, “most”, and “none” may use a singular or a plural verb depending upon the context. See the following examples …
  A) All is lost. (“All” indicates a single collective unit.)
  B) All are safe. (“All” indicates a number of persons or things.)

- Similarly, collective nouns may use a singular or a plural verb depending upon the context. Collective nouns may be considered as a single unit or used to indicate a number of individuals. Collective nouns include words like “team”, “jury”, “committee”, “majority”, “company”, “assembly”, “staff”, and “community”. See the following examples …
  A) The committee is meeting. (“Committee” indicates a single unit acting as one.)
  B) The committee are debating. (“Committee” indicates a number of individuals interacting.)

3. Noun - Pronoun Agreement One function that pronouns serve is to rename nouns. When used to rename a noun, the pronoun must agree in number, gender, person, and case. The following examples display how pronouns rename nouns.

A) Bob lost his watch.

Using the pronoun “his” to rename “Bob” sounds better than saying: “Bob lost Bob’s watch.”

B) The dog buried its bone.

Using the pronoun “its” to rename “dog” sounds better than saying: “The dog buried the dog’s bone.”
The most common Noun - Pronoun Agreement errors involve number disagreements. Use a singular pronoun when renaming a singular noun and a plural pronoun when renaming a plural noun. See the following example ...

Every man must do their duty.

“Their” renames “man”. But, man is singular (one man - not two or more men), and “their” is plural (two or more people). This sentence should read: “Every man must do his duty.” Now, both the noun “man” and the pronoun “his” are singular.

The below chart lists common singular and plural pronouns. Note that “you”, “your”, and “yours” can be singular or plural depending upon the context.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>I, me, my, mine, he, she, it, him, her, his, hers, its</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Plural</td>
<td>we, us, our, ours, they, them, their, theirs</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Singular or Plural</td>
<td>you, your, yours</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

A plural pronoun is used to rename two or more singular nouns joined by “and”. See the following example …

The foreman and the carpenter have their tools.

The plural pronoun “their” correctly renames the two singular nouns “foreman” and “carpenter”.

A singular pronoun is used to rename two or more singular nouns joined by “or” or “nor”. See the following example …

Neither Mr. Myers nor Mr. Green will have his own company car at this time.

When renaming collective nouns, a pronoun can be plural or singular depending upon context. Collective nouns include words like “team”, “jury”, “committee”, “majority”, “company”, “assembly”, “staff”, and “community”. See the following examples …

The committee will submit its report on Monday.

The committee voiced their varied opinions.

In the first sentence, the singular pronoun “its” is used because “committee” refers to single unit. In the second sentence, the plural pronoun “their” is used because “committee” refers to two or more individuals acting independently.

Pronouns must agree in gender with the nouns they rename. See the following example …

Every man must do her duty.

The noun “man” is masculine, and the pronoun “her” is feminine. The sentence should read “Every man must do his duty” so that both the noun and pronoun are masculine. If it is not clear whether noun being renamed is masculine or feminine, it is customary to use a masculine pronoun.

The below chart lists common masculine and feminine pronouns. Note that most pronouns are neutral and can therefore be masculine and feminine depending upon the context.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th></th>
<th>he, him, his</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Feminine</td>
<td>she, her, hers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Neutral</td>
<td>I, me, my, mine, we, us, our, ours, you, your, yours, it, its, they, them, their, theirs</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Pronouns must agree in person with the nouns they rename. See the following example …

Every man must do your duty.

This does not sound right or make sense. It should read: “Every man must do his duty.”
Pronouns can be first person, second person, or third person. The below chart lists common first person, second person, and third person pronouns.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>First Person (the person speaking)</th>
<th>I, me, my, mine, we, us, our, ours</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Second Person (the person spoken to)</td>
<td>you, your, yours</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Third Person (another person)</td>
<td>he, she, it, him, her, his, hers, its, they, them, their, theirs</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- Pronouns must agree with the case of the noun they rename. There are three cases of pronouns: Nominative, Objective, and Possessive. The correct case of a pronoun is determined by the way it is used in a sentence. See the following example …

  The director asked Mr. Owens and I to write the report.

  Most case agreement errors occur when a pronoun is used in a sentence with one or more other nouns or pronouns and when they are joined by “and” or “or”. To find which case should be used, omit the connecting word (“and” or “or”) and the other noun or pronoun. This makes an error obvious. With our sample sentence, let’s omit “Mr. Owens” and the connecting word “and” to revise the sentence to read “The director asked I to write the report.” Now the error is obvious. The revised sentence would sound much more logical using “me” instead of “I” like this: “The director asked me to write the report.” Therefore, our original sentence should read: “The director asked Mr. Owens and me to write the report.”

  The below chart lists common nominative, objective, and possessive pronouns. Notice that “you” can be nominative or objective depending upon its use in the sentence.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Nominative</th>
<th>I, you, he, she, we, they, who</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Objective</td>
<td>me, you, him, her, us, them, whom</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Possessive</td>
<td>my, your, yours, his, her, hers, our, their, whose</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

- A pronoun should not be used unless it is clear which noun it renames. See the example …

  Eric sent the message to John last week, but he left before the message was delivered.

  Who does “he” refer to - Eric or John? It could be either. In this sentence, we should use the name “Eric” or “John” rather than the pronoun “he” to avoid confusion.

4. Complex and Compound Sentences

- A complex sentence consists of a simple sentence and a dependent clause that are usually joined by a comma. When separated, the simple sentence portion of a complex sentence can stand alone as a complete thought, but the dependent clause portion cannot. See the below example …

  After dinner at the restaurant, we can go to the movie.

  “We can go to the movie” is a simple sentence that can stand alone. “After dinner at the restaurant” is a dependent clause that does not express a complete thought and cannot stand alone.

- A compound sentence consists of two or more simple sentences. The simple sentences in a compound sentence can be connected three different ways as follows.

  The most common compound sentence connection is a comma followed by a conjunction.

  They went to the mall, and Sherry bought two new outfits.

  There are two simple sentences in this compound sentence. The first simple sentence is: “They went to the mall.” The second simple sentence is: “Sherry bought two new outfits.” These two simple sentences make complete sense by themselves.

  Our sample compound sentence above uses a comma followed by the conjunction “and” to join two simple sentences. Listed below are common conjunctions used in compound sentences.

  and but for nor or so yet
Compound sentences can be joined by just a semicolon ( ; ). This is generally done when the simple sentences being connected express closely related thoughts. See the below example …

Our car is broken down; it must be repaired before we can leave on vacation.

Compound sentences can be joined by using a semicolon ( ; ) followed by a conjunctive adverb which is followed by a comma. See the below example …

Store sales have fallen; therefore, we must reduce payroll costs.

Listed below are common conjunctive adverbs.

5. Following are words that are commonly used inappropriately and suggested proper usage.

a / an
Use “a” before words that begin with consonants. Use “an” before words that begin with vowels. Also use “an” before words beginning with a silent “h” (an honest man”).

affect / effect
Affect means to influence or to imitate. Effect means to bring about or a result.

allude / refer
Allude is often used where refer is more appropriate. Allude indicates an indirect reference. Refer indicates a specific reference.

allusion / illusion
An allusion is an indirect reference. An illusion is a false idea or image.

already / all ready
Already means now or before a stated time. All ready means completely prepared.

alright / all right
Alright is inappropriate and should not be used. “All right” is the correct expression.

altogether / all together
Altogether means entirely or complete. All together means assembled as a group.

amount / number
Amount represents units or things in mass. Number is for countable objects.

and etc.
“And etc.” is inappropriate and should not be used. Use “etc.” without the word “and”

angry at / angry about / angry with
You are angry with a person. You are angry at or angry about a thing.

anyplace / noplace / someplace
These words are inappropriate. Anywhere, nowhere, and somewhere are the preferred words.

anywheres / anywhere
Anywheres is inappropriate and should not be used. Anywhere is the correct word.

beside / besides
Beside means “by the side of”. Besides means “in addition to”.

All rights reserved including the right of reproduction or distribution in whole or in part by any means.
between / among
Between refers to two persons or things. Among refers to three or more persons or things.

can’t seem to
“Can’t seem to” is inappropriate and should not be used. “Seem unable to” is the correct expression.
capital / capitol
Capital refers to money or to a city that is a governmental or industrial center. A capitol is a building where high level governmental functions take place.
casual / causal
Casual means informal, unplanned, or happening by chance. Causal means involving cause or reason.
cite / site / sight
Cite means to quote or give example. Site indicates a place. Sight refers to vision.
compliment / complement Compliment is an expression of praise. Complement means to complete or being to perfection.
counsel / council
Counsel means (1) an attorney or advisor or (2) to give advice. A council is a group meeting for discussion.
data / phenomena / media
These are plural nouns that, when used in a sentence, require the use of a plural verb. The singular forms of these nouns are datum, phenomenon, and medium.
differ from / differ with “Differ from” refers to a degree of similarity. “Differ with” refers to a difference of opinion.
discuss / invent
Discover means to find. Invent means to create.
each other / one another
“Each other” is used when referring to two persons or things. “One another” is used when the involvement is among three or more persons or things.
every so often
“Every so often” is inappropriate and should not be used. Use the word “occasionally” instead.
famous / notable / notorious / infamous
Famous means well known. Notable means worthy of notice. Notorious and infamous both mean to have an exceedingly bad reputation.
farther / further
Farther refers to physical distance. Further means to a greater extent.
fewer / less
Fewer refers to number. Less indicates quantity.
funny
Should be used when referring to humor but not when referring to oddness.
good / well
Good is an adjective used to describe a noun … for example: “I am a good boy.” Well is an adverb used to describe a verb, an adjective, or another adverb … for example: “I don’t feel well.”
hanged / hung
Hanged means to be executed. Hung means suspended … for example: “The picture is hung on the wall.”
implic / infer
Imply means to state in an indirect fashion. Infer means to draw a conclusion.
in / into
In refers to location, position, or condition. Into indicates movement or direction.

in regards to
“In regards to” is inappropriate and should not be used. The correct expression is “in regard to”.

inside of
“Inside of” is inappropriate and should not be used. Use the words “inside” or “within” instead.

irregardless
“Irregardless” is inappropriate and should not be used. The correct word is “regardless”.

later / latter
Later means more late. Latter indicates last.

lie / lay
Lie is to rest (lie on a bed). Lay is to place (lay it on the table).

lose / loose
Lose means to misplace or to be deprived of. Loose means not tight.

lots / lots of
These are informal expressions that should not be used in as written form. Use much or many instead.

moral / morale
Moral can mean “ethical” or “a lesson learned”. Morale is a spirit or feeling of confidence.

much / many
Much refers to quantity. Many refers to numbers.

numbers
In formal writing, the numbers one through ninety-nine (1 - 99) should be written as words. Numbers larger than ninety-nine (99) can be written simply as numbers.

pretty
Pretty should not be used in the place of adverbs like very, rather, and quite.

principal / principle
Principal means most important or headmaster of a school. A principle is a fundamental truth or law.

sit / set
Sit means to be seated (sit on a chair). Set means to place (set it on the desk).

sure / surely / certainly
Do not use sure in the place of the adverbs surely or certainly. Examples … I surely (not sure) like your car. I certainly (not sure) appreciate your help.

than / then
Than is used for comparison. Then means “at that time” or “next”.

their / there / they’re
“Their” is a possessive pronoun. (The blue Volvo is their car.) “There” is an introductory word. (There are several cars on the lot.) “They’re” is contraction for “they are”. (They’re looking for a blue car.)

to / too / two
“To” is a preposition (He went to the store). “Too” can mean “also” (She went to the store too) or express degree (Steve was too tired to mow the lawn). “Two” is a number.

who / which / that
Who refers to people. Which refers to things. That can refer to people or things.
Vocabulary and Reading Comprehension Section

This section consists of fifteen questions – five Vocabulary questions and ten Reading Comprehension questions. It is really two smaller sections merged together. Let’s look at the two types of questions.

Vocabulary Questions

For each of the five Vocabulary questions, you are given a sentence with a particular word highlighted. Then, you are given a list of four words, and you are to choose which of the four listed words most nearly means the same as the highlighted word in the sentence. See the below examples …

1. Ms Brown gave the class an intimidating expression.
   - Intimidating most nearly means
     A) affectionate
     B) frightening
     C) reassuring
     D) apathetic
   Intimidating most nearly means frightening, so we would mark answer choice B for this question.

2. Mussolini portrayed himself as a hero, but many viewed him as a power hungry autocrat.
   - Autocrat most nearly means
     A) benefactor
     B) patron
     C) representative
     D) dictator
   Autocrat most nearly means dictator, so we would mark answer choice D for this question.

The following review includes an Etymology Table and a list of words you should know. Reading over this review a few times should enable you to more readily recognize what various words mean and to more accurately select answers for the Vocabulary questions.

Etymology is the study of the origin of words. An Etymology Table is a list of the basic prefixes (beginning of a word), suffixes (ending of a word), and roots (middle of a word). How can an Etymology Table help you? See the following example…

Let’s say that you have a vocabulary question with the word misanthrope. The meaning of the word misanthrope is not known by many people. However, if you had studied an Etymology Table, you could break this word down into two parts as displayed below to get a better picture of what it means.

   mis - prefix meaning “wrong” or “bad”
   anthrope - root meaning “man”

Using this method, you would come up with something like “bad man”. The real meaning of misanthrope is “one who hates people”. Although this etymology method did not give you the exact definition, it gave you a pretty good idea of the meaning, which in turn would enable you to make an educated guess on a vocabulary question. That is the sole purpose of this strategy - to enable you to make educated guesses on words that you’ve never seen before rather than guessing blindly or leaving the question blank.

Beginning on the following page is an Etymology Table for the English language that includes common prefixes, suffixes, and roots. English evolved from four major sources: Old English, Greek, Latin, and French. Old English is by far the largest contributor to our language. Greek, Latin, and French terms are more often seen in fields like religion, art, science, medicine, drama, and law. As preparation for the vocabulary questions on the 710 exam, review this table several times.

Reading Comprehension Questions

In the ten Reading Comprehension questions, you are given a paragraph to read and four sentences that are related to the subject of the paragraph. Your job is to choose which sentence best summarizes/supports the paragraph. Let’s look at an example to get a better picture of what these questions are like …

“Vandalism is the wanton destruction of public or personal property. The word vandalism is derived from the Vandals, a Germanic tribe that sacked Rome in 455 AD. Major cities suffer millions of dollars worth of vandalism each year. The economic expenditure needed to refurbish and revitalize vandalized properties takes a heavy toll on all taxpayers.”

This paragraph best supports the statement that vandalism

A) is a problem that can be controlled.
B) causes a financial burden for taxpayers.
C) is the result of barbarous invasions.
D) will rise with increasing population.

Statement B best summarizes the paragraph. So, we would mark answer choice B on our answer sheet.

Success on this section calls for practice with up-to-date and authentic sample questions. Your goal is to train yourself to quickly read paragraphs in order to determine their meaning and purpose.

There are two types of reading comprehension questions – literal and inferential. You can usually find the point or the answer for a literal reading comprehension question in a specific sentence or spot within the paragraph. With this type of question, the sentence that best summarizes the paragraph may almost seem to be a direct quote from the paragraph.

Inferential reading comprehension questions can be more challenging. With inferential questions, you must grasp all the information presented in the paragraph and then draw a conclusion about the meaning of the paragraph based upon your understanding of this information.

Below are tips that will assist you in mastering Reading Comprehension questions:

1. Read the paragraph. Do not just skim over it. In order to answer a question, you must fully understand what the paragraph says, especially with inferential reading comprehension questions.

2. Carefully read over the first sentence of the paragraph and then briefly reflect on what it says. Frequently, but not always, the first sentence summarizes the topic to be discussed in the paragraph.

3. As you look over the answer choices, immediately eliminate any that are obviously wrong. This will enable you to avoid confusion and to focus only on the answer choices that seem more credible.

4. Use the facts presented in the paragraph to make your answer choice. The facts presented are the only criteria available for selecting the best answer choice.

Practice Instructions

Now that we have a better understanding of what is on the exam, we will move on the most important part of your test preparation – practice. In order to master the skills and speed demanded on this exam, you need to take all of the practice tests provided in this study guide. And, you absolutely must take them in a realistic fashion … meaning that you must time yourself precisely as you take the tests. If you do not time yourself precisely … if you do not experience the immense pressure of time … if you do not train yourself to answer the questions within the limited time allowed … then you have accomplished nothing at all.

Success calls for dedication and work. Those who are not willing to apply themselves will not succeed. Once you complete this guide and its practice tests, you will be prepared to excel on the exam.
Complete Practice Test #1

A complete practice test for exam 710 is presented on the following pages. This practice test is formatted and broken into various segments/sections just like the real exam. The instructions given for each portion of the practice test are similar to the instructions you will hear on the real exam.

It is imperative that you take this practice test realistically - that you time yourself precisely on each portion as directed in the instructions. If you do not time yourself precisely in order to master the incredible speed demanded, you have gained nothing at all.

Immediately following this practice test is an answer sheet and an answer key. Mark your answers on the answer sheet, and use the answer key to score yourself. It is imperative that you score each practice test in order to measure your performance and progress. Never be satisfied with your performance - always strive for improvement.

Practice Test #1 – Clerical Abilities Segment

The first half of the exam is the Clerical Abilities Segment. This segment consists of four timed sections. You will be given instructions for each section as you work your way through this segment. When you are ready to begin the Clerical Abilities Segment, go on to the instructions below for the first section.

Practice Test #1 – Clerical Abilities Segment
Sequencing Section
Instructions

In this section, you are given three minutes to answer twenty questions. Each question is a name/code in a box followed by a list of four other names/codes in alpha/numeric order. You are to find where, in alpha/numeric order, the name/code in the box would fit into the list below it. The spots where the name/code in the box could fit into the list are labeled with the letters A, B, C, D, and E. To mark your answer for each question, darken on your answer sheet the letter for the spot where you think the name/code in the box should go.

Turn to the next page and begin when you are prepared to time yourself for exactly three minutes.

Instructions

In this section you have five minutes to answer thirty questions. Each question is a list of three names, addresses, or codes. You are to determine if the three listed items are exactly alike or if they are different in any way. Then you are to mark your answer on the answer sheet based upon the below instructions:

A. If ALL THREE names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
B. If only the FIRST AND SECOND names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
C. If only the FIRST AND THIRD names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
D. If only the SECOND AND THIRD names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
E. If ALL THREE names, addresses, or codes are DIFFERENT.

Mathematics Section

Instructions

In this section you have eight minutes to answer fifteen mathematical questions. You must solve the problems using pencil and paper. No calculators are allowed! Do your calculations in the margins or blank areas on the page with the questions. For each question, answer choices A, B, C, and D are possible solutions to the mathematical problem. Answer choice E is “none of the above”. You are to mark on your answer sheet either the answer choice with the correct solution to the mathematical problem or answer choice D if you believe that none of the possible solutions are correct.

Practice Test #1 – Verbal Abilities Segment

The Verbal Abilities Segment, has a total of 55 questions that are broken down into three sections. You are given a single 50 minute period to answer the 55 questions. You work through all three of the sections in a single 50 minute period without stopping or pausing between the sections. When taking the real exam, you are told that you may leave if you finish before the 50 minutes is up, and most people do finish and leave before time is called. Following are instructions for the various sections of the Verbal Abilities Segment.

Following Written Instructions Section

There are 20 questions in the Following Written Instructions Section. Each question is a set of instructions that causes you create a letter-number combination. After creating a letter-number combination, you look it up on a Look-Up Table, which enables you to convert it into an answer choice. The answer choices are A, B, C, D, and E. You answer the questions by darkening your answer choices on the answer sheet.

Grammar, Usage, and Punctuation Section

This section consists of twenty questions dealing with the proper use of grammar, words, and punctuation. Each question gives you four similar sentences labeled A, B, C, and D. You are to choose which sentence is structured most appropriately with respect to grammar, usage, and punctuation suitable for a formal letter or report. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

Vocabulary and Reading Comprehension Section

This section consists of fifteen questions - five Vocabulary questions and ten Reading Comprehension questions. It is really two smaller sections merged together. Each type of question is discussed below.

Vocabulary Questions

For each of the five Vocabulary questions, you are given a sentence with a particular word highlighted. Then, you are given a list of four words labeled A, B, C, and D. You are to choose which of the four listed words most nearly means the same as the highlighted word in the sentence. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

Reading Comprehension Questions

In the ten Reading Comprehension questions, you are given a paragraph and four sentences labeled A, B, C, and D that are related to the subject of the paragraph. Your job is to choose which sentence best summarizes the paragraph. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

46. Words used by the ancient Greeks and Romans make up more than half of our total vocabulary. Many of these words appear unchanged in today’s English. Even the ancient spelling remains intact. However, in many instances the meaning of these words have evolved to the point that an individual from ancient Greece or Rome might not comprehend them.

This paragraph best supports the statement that ancient Greeks and Romans
A) used the English language.
B) used words that appear unchanged in English but may not retain their original meanings.
C) could read our language.
D) used half the words in our vocabulary.
47. “Deadline”, an amazing fictional account of the building of an atomic bomb, was published in the Astounding Sci-Fiction magazine in 1944. This article was published while scientists in Los Alamos, New Mexico were developing the real atomic bomb that would be dropped on Hiroshima over a year later. The article caused a great stir among those with top security clearance because its description of an atomic bomb was so accurate.

This paragraph best supports the statement that details for building an atomic bomb
A) were leaked to an author of science fiction stories.
B) were presented in a science magazine.
C) were described in a science fiction magazine while scientists were developing the real bomb.
D) were first published in a magazine along with the idea to bomb Hiroshima.

48. There are reasons for long, difficult words in your vocabulary. A long word can save time and space when writing. One long word can be used to replace many small words. For example, the single word “acceleration” replaces the ten smaller words “the rate of increase of a moving or falling object”. Similarly, the single word “adaptability” replaces the fourteen smaller words “the ability to adjust to changes around us by altering our habits and reactions”.

This paragraph best supports the statement that long, difficult words
A) are not useful.
B) can save time and space.
C) include words such as “acceleration” and “adaptability”.
D) are preferable to short words.

49. The aardvark is a nocturnal animal that can grow up to six feet in length and weigh as much as 150 pounds. This long bodied rat-tailed creature burrows into termite nests for food. He retracts his food through the use of a long, sticky tongue. In the Afrikaans language, the aardvark’s name is translated as “earth pig”.

This paragraph best supports the statement that an earth pig is
A) an animal from Africa.
B) a termite eating aardvark.
C) the solution to termite problems.
D) ill-equipped to forage for its food.

50. Herman Melville is best known today for his book “Moby Dick” and a short novel “Billy Budd”. The novel “Moby Dick” was too profound for Melville’s contemporaries, and it was not until the 1930’s that this magnificent work received its deserved acclaim. This deeply symbolic work will be pondered and enjoyed for many years to come.

This paragraph best supports the statement that Melville’s work was
A) instantly popular with the public of Melville’s day.
B) an overly simplistic adventure.
C) a worthy attempt to recount the life of a whaler.
D) a good piece of literature that did not receive its due acclaim until many years after its release.

51. Very few countries today carry on the whaling industry. It is limited by decreased demand for whale by-products and by many environmental laws designed to protect whales. Many whales are now classified as endangered species due to uncontrolled hunting in years gone by.

This paragraph best supports the statement that the whaling industry is
A) a thriving enterprise carried on primarily by third world countries.
B) limited by several different factors.
C) effected by technological advances.
D) carried on primarily by countries suffering from reduced food production.
52. In North America, acid rain pollution affects the northeastern U.S. and southeastern Canada more than other areas. The burning of fossil fuels releases sulfur and nitrogen oxides that accumulate in the atmosphere and fall as acid rain. Bodies of water near heavily populated areas are polluted as they collect acid rain runoff. Because political borders do not restrict acid rain, the U.S. and Canada must join forces to combat this form of pollution.

This paragraph best supports the statement that acid rain
A) is a problem in heavily populated and industrialized areas.
B) results from the flagrant disregard of environmental standards by Canadian industries.
C) is not as serious as smog pollution in California.
D) is geographically limited to the northeastern portion of our country.

53. Mao Tse-Tung was born to an educated Chinese peasant. He was the founder of the Peoples Republic of China. His wife Chiang Ching reportedly influenced his rule, which lasted from the end of World War II until poor health forced him to withdraw from the public in 1974.

Complete Practice Test #2

A complete practice test for exam 710 is presented on the following pages. This practice test is formatted and broken into various segments/sections just like the real exam. The instructions given for each portion of the practice test are similar to the instructions you will hear on the real exam.

It is imperative that you take this practice test realistically - that you time yourself precisely on each portion as directed in the instructions. If you do not time yourself precisely in order to master the incredible speed demanded, you have gained nothing at all.

Immediately following this practice test is an answer sheet and an answer key. Mark your answers on the answer sheet, and use the answer key to score yourself. It is imperative that you score each practice test in order to measure your performance and progress. Never be satisfied with your performance - always strive for improvement.

Practice Test #2 – Clerical Abilities Segment

The first half of the exam is the Clerical Abilities Segment. This segment consists of four timed sections. You will be given instructions for each section as you work your way through this segment. When you are ready to begin the Clerical Abilities Segment, go on to the instructions below for the first section.

Practice Test #2 – Clerical Abilities Segment

Sequencing Section

Instructions

In this section, you are given three minutes to answer twenty questions. Each question is a name/code in a box followed by a list of four other names/codes in alpha/numeric order. You are to find where, in alpha/numeric order, the name/code in the box would fit into the list below it. The spots where the name/code in the box could fit into the list are labeled with the letters A, B, C, D, and E. To mark your answer for each question, darken on your answer sheet the letter for the spot where you think the name/code in the box should go.

Turn to the next page and begin when you are prepared to time yourself for exactly three minutes.

Comparison Section
Instructions

In this section you have five minutes to answer thirty questions. Each question is a list of three names, addresses, or codes. You are to determine if the three listed items are exactly alike or if they are different in any way. Then you are to mark your answer on the answer sheet based upon the below instructions:

A. If ALL THREE names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
B. If only the FIRST AND SECOND names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
C. If only the FIRST AND THIRD names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
D. If only the SECOND AND THIRD names, addresses, or codes are exactly ALIKE.
E. If ALL THREE names, addresses, or codes are DIFFERENT.

Practice Test #2 – Verbal Abilities Segment

The Verbal Abilities Segment, has a total of 55 questions that are broken down into three sections. You are given a single 50 minute period to answer the 55 questions. You work through all three of the sections in a single 50 minute period without stopping or pausing between the sections. When taking the real exam, you are told that you may leave if you finish before the 50 minutes is up, and most people do finish and leave before time is called. Following are instructions for the various sections of the Verbal Abilities Segment.

Following Written Instructions Section

There are 20 questions in the Following Written Instructions Section. Each question is a set of instructions that causes you create a letter-number combination. After creating a letter-number combination, you look it up on a Look-Up Table, which enables you to convert it into an answer choice. The answer choices are A, B, C, D, and E. You answer the questions by darkening your answer choices on the answer sheet.

Grammar, Usage, and Punctuation Section

This section consists of twenty questions dealing with the proper use of grammar, words, and punctuation. Each question gives you four similar sentences labeled A, B, C, and D. You are to choose which sentence is structured most appropriately with respect to grammar, usage, and punctuation suitable for a formal letter or report. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

Vocabulary and Reading Comprehension Section

This section consists of fifteen questions - five Vocabulary questions and ten Reading Comprehension questions. It is really two smaller sections merged together. Each type of question is discussed below.

Vocabulary Questions
For each of the five Vocabulary questions, you are given a sentence with a particular word highlighted. Then, you are given a list of four words labeled A, B, C, and D. You are to choose which of the four listed words most nearly means the same as the highlighted word in the sentence. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

Reading Comprehension Questions
In the ten Reading Comprehension questions, you are given a paragraph and four sentences labeled A, B, C, and D that are related to the subject of the paragraph. Your job is to choose which sentence best summarizes the paragraph. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

The typewriter, a predecessor of the word processor, was the primary writing machine before the introduction of digital technology. Similar to today’s computers, a typewriter is operated by depressing keys on a keyboard. Depressing a typewriter key causes a pivoted bar bearing that key’s character to strike an inked ribbon against the paper leaving behind a printed impression of the character. C. L. Sholes designed the first practical typewriter in 1886.
This paragraph best supports the statement that the typewriter
A) is an indispensable office machine.
B) was a useful writing machine prior to the invention of the word processor.
C) is too complicated to be understood.
D) is used to make copies of existing documents.
47. Bonsai, the art of growing dwarfed trees, is a gift to us from the Oriental culture. It is an ancient art that has become a popular hobby in North America. An enthusiast may spend up to three years pruning roots and shoots to carefully cultivate one of these beautiful miniature trees. This paragraph best supports the statement that Bonsai is
A) an ancient Asian hobby.
B) a currently popular hobby based upon the ancient art of dwarfing trees.
C) an art form native to North America.
D) a skill which enhances the beauty of trees.

48. Orcinus orca, the killer whale, is found throughout the oceans of the world. In recent times, this intelligent sea creature has made its way inland to amusement parks. The killer whale is a huge mammal, averaging twenty feet in length, that preys upon dolphins, porpoises, seals, and fish. It as been described as a “fast and voracious predator”. Killer whales hunt in groups forcing their prey into shallow water making escape impossible. This paragraph best supports the statement that the killer whale is
A) a dangerous mammal and a legendary man-killer.
B) a predator that dwells in shallow water.
C) an intelligent mammal, a successful predator, and more recently a successful entertainer.
D) a dolphin-like mammal most often found in warm waters.

49. Language, the simple tool we use to communicate, is really not simple at all. One can never be sure that the words spoken are meant to convey the literal meaning of those words. Facial and body expression, inflection, and situation can alter the words' intent. Even more destructive to communication is the listener’s interpretation. What is said may not be what is truly meant by the speaker, and what the listener hears may not be what the speaker really means to say. This paragraph best supports the statement that the meaning of words
A) is as straight forward as a dictionary’s definition.
B) is usually misunderstood.
C) may be altered by the speaker, by the listener, or by both.
D) can be altered by the speaker’s vocal expressions.

50. A recent experimental exercise program provided very worthwhile results. In this program, a group of men aged 50 - 87 participated in swimming, calisthenics, and jogging. Afterwards, many of these men commented that they felt years younger. They experienced significant improvements in blood pressure, oxygen consumption, and nervous tension. This paragraph best supports the statement that exercise
A) is worthwhile for older people.
B) should be carefully monitored.
C) has potential for reversing the aging process.
D) can prevent certain common problems of the elderly.

51. At the dedication of the military cemetery at Gettysburg, Abraham Lincoln delivered a speech so short that it ended before the photographer could adjust his camera. Lincoln was preceded on the platform by Edward Everett, a noted orator of the day, who delivered a full account of the battle fought there. Mr. Everett later commented, “I should flatter myself that I came as near the central idea of the occasion in two hours as President Lincoln did in two minutes.” This paragraph best supports the statement that the speech made by President Lincoln
A) was destined for greatness.
B) was not the only speech made at the Gettysburg dedication.
C) was too short.
D) has been preserved in Lincoln’s own handwriting.
52. Satirists in colonial America often made sport of King George III, the symbol of unwanted British intervention in the colonists’ governmental affairs. A prime example is a satire by Benjamin Franklin that described several ways for a country to rid itself of colonies. Mr. Franklin depicted actions by King George and the Whig Party as intentional wedges driven between England and its American colonies.

This paragraph best supports the statement that Benjamin Franklin
A) felt that King George II wanted to disassociate England from the American colonies.
B) wrote a humorous satire to point out British actions that angered American colonists.
C) wrote respectfully of the British monarch.
D) wrote an ineffective article to prevent war between England and American colonists.

53. Automation continues to improve productivity and efficiency in the processing of mail. Automated machinery can sort and distribute mail far more rapidly than humans can. However, when it comes to delivering mail, the story is quite different. Mail delivery is the heart of the Postal Service, and machines will likely never feature the flexibility and reasoning demanded for delivering mail.

This paragraph best supports the statement that automated machinery
A) is always more productive and efficient that humans.
B) is rapidly replacing all Postal employees.
C) has better flexibility and reasoning power than humans.
D) may be good for certain processing functions but will likely never replace human mail carriers.

54. The cost of reducing pollution from automobile exhaust can be viewed from several perspectives. Automobile manufacturers incur costs when designing and building more efficient engines, but these costs are passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices. Oil companies incur costs when refining gasoline to burn more efficiently, but again these costs are passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices. The federal government incurs costs in the form of corporate tax breaks offered to automobile manufacturers and oil companies as incentive to produce more environmentally friendly products. However, many believe that the government collects more taxes from consumers in order to make up for revenues lost due to these corporate tax breaks. When viewed from any perspective, it seems as though consumers are footing the bill for reducing pollution from automobile exhaust.

This paragraph best supports the statement that the cost of reducing pollution from automobile exhaust is
A) exclusively paid for by automobile manufacturers.
B) exclusively paid for by oil companies.
C) subsidized by the federal government.
D) mostly paid for by consumers in the long run.

55. Today’s printing technology enables even small businesses to produce their own print products within certain limits. However, the cost of using a commercial printer becomes more economical as quantities increase. To make a prudent decision, one must compare the costs on each project, especially on larger quantity projects.

This paragraph best supports the statement that small businesses
A) should compare the cost of self-printing and commercial printing on all projects.
B) always save money by printing their own products.
C) should invest in the latest printing technology.
D) should form their own printing companies as soon as possible.

Complete Practice Test #3

A complete practice test for exam 710 is presented on the following pages. This practice test is formatted and broken into various segments/sections just like the real exam. The instructions given for each portion of the practice test are similar to the instructions you will hear on the real exam.

It is imperative that you take this practice test realistically - that you time yourself precisely on each portion as directed in the instructions. If you do not time yourself precisely in order to master the incredible speed demanded, you have gained nothing at all.

Immediately following this practice test is an answer sheet and an answer key. Mark your answers on the answer sheet, and use the answer key to score yourself. It is imperative that you score each practice test in order to measure your performance and progress. Never be satisfied with your performance - always strive for improvement.

Practice Test #3 – Clerical Abilities Segment

The first half of the exam is the Clerical Abilities Segment. This segment consists of four timed sections. You will be given instructions for each section as you work your way through this segment. When you are ready to begin the Clerical Abilities Segment, go on to the instructions below for the first section.

Practice Test #3 – Clerical Abilities Segment
Sequencing Section
Instructions

In this section, you are given three minutes to answer twenty questions. Each question is a name/code in a box followed by a list of four other names/codes in alpha/numeric order. You are to find where, in alpha/numeric order, the name/code in the box would fit into the list below it. The spots where the name/code in the box could fit into the list are labeled with the letters A, B, C, D, and E. To mark your answer for each question, darken on your answer sheet the letter for the spot where you think the name/code in the box should go.

Turn to the next page and begin when you are prepared to time yourself for exactly three minutes.

Practice Test #3 – Clerical Abilities Segment
Spelling Section
Instructions

In this section you are given three minutes to answer twenty questions. Each question gives you three possible ways - labeled A, B, and C - to spell a particular word. Answer choice D is “None of the above”. You are to mark on the answer sheet either the answer choice with the correct spelling or answer choice D if you believe that none of the possible spellings are correct.

Turn to the next page and begin when you are prepared to time yourself for exactly three minutes.

Practice Test #3 – Clerical Abilities Segment
Mathematics Section
Instructions

In this section you have eight minutes to answer fifteen mathematical questions. You must solve the problems using pencil and paper. No calculators are allowed! Do your calculations in the margins or blank areas on the page with the questions. For each question, answer choices A, B, C, and D are possible solutions to the mathematical problem. Answer choice E is “none of the above”. You are to mark on your answer sheet either the answer choice with the correct solution to the mathematical problem or answer choice D if you believe that none of the possible solutions are correct.

Turn to the next page and begin when you are prepared to time yourself for exactly eight minutes.

Practice Test #3 – Verbal Abilities Segment

The Verbal Abilities Segment, has a total of 55 questions that are broken down into three sections. You are given a single 50 minute period to answer the 55 questions. You work through all three of the sections in a single 50 minute period without stopping or pausing between the sections. When taking the real exam, you are told that you may leave if you finish before the 50 minutes is up, and most people do finish and leave before time is called. Following are instructions for the various sections of the Verbal Abilities Segment.

Following Written Instructions Section

There are 20 questions in the Following Written Instructions Section. Each question is a set of instructions that causes you create a letter-number combination. After creating a letter-number combination, you look it up on a Look-Up Table, which enables you to convert it into an answer choice. The answer choices are A, B, C, D, and E. You answer the questions by darkening your answer choices on the answer sheet.

Grammar, Usage, and Punctuation Section

This section consists of twenty questions dealing with the proper use of grammar, words, and punctuation. Each question gives you four similar sentences labeled A, B, C, and D. You are to choose which sentence is structured most appropriately with respect to grammar, usage, and punctuation suitable for a formal letter or report. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

Vocabulary and Reading Comprehension Section

This section consists of fifteen questions - five Vocabulary questions and ten Reading Comprehension questions. It is really two smaller sections merged together. Each type of question is discussed below.

Vocabulary Questions
For each of the five Vocabulary questions, you are given a sentence with a particular word highlighted. Then, you are given a list of four words labeled A, B, C, and D. You are to choose which of the four listed words most nearly means the same as the highlighted word in the sentence. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

Reading Comprehension Questions
In the ten Reading Comprehension questions, you are given a paragraph and four sentences labeled A, B, C, and D that are related to the subject of the paragraph. Your job is to choose which sentence best summarizes the paragraph. Mark your answer by darkening your answer choice on the answer sheet.

46. After World War II, the city of Berlin was divided into East Berlin and West Berlin. The Soviet Union controlled East Berlin, and West Berlin was allied with democratic western countries. In 1961, Soviet East Germany erected a wall of concrete, steel, and barbed wire to separate East Berlin from West Berlin. Called the Berlin Wall, it was twenty-seven miles long, had twelve official crossing points, and was constantly patrolled. This barrier to peaceful relations was finally dismantled in 1989.
   This paragraph best supports the statement that the separation of East and West Berlin
   A) is a permanent situation.
   B) was radically defined from 1961 to 1989 by a twenty-seven mile wall.
   C) is the result of Communist aggression.
   D) is but a political formality.
47. Although Ulysses S. Grant improved relations with Britain during his two terms as president, his stay in office is remembered for graft, failure to annex Santo Domingo, and failure to enforce the Force Acts. The Force Acts were designed to assure Negro civil and voting rights. Mr. Grant’s major problem was appointing friends rather than capable men to key government positions. This paragraph best supports the statement that President Grant’s terms of office
A) are remembered for failure rather than success.
B) resulted in depressed economic conditions.
C) were regarded as failures because of Grant’s lack of leadership abilities.
D) destroyed Mr. Grant’s reputation.

48. Michel de Nostradamus was court physician to Charles IX of France. He was made famous by his prediction of the death of Henry II. He published his prophesies in verse in a book entitled Centuries in 1955. His prophesies are generally considered vague. This paragraph best supports the statement that Nostradamus
A) made his fame as a physician to Charles IX.
B) was an astrologer.
C) published a book of prophesies.
D) is respected to this day for his predictions.

49. The Mau Mau, a Kenyan Kikuyu terrorist organization, ran a campaign of sabotage and murder from 1952 until 1960. Their aim was to drive out the British. The Mau Mau lost over 11,000 members in their crusade. They killed an estimated 100 Europeans and 2,000 natives who refused to join the organization. In excess of 20,000 Mau Mau were finally detained. This paragraph best supports the statement that the Mau Mau uprising in Kenya
A) resulted in the British relinquishing control in that country.
B) resulted in over 10,000 deaths.
C) swept through several African countries.
D) was successful.

50. Many basic examinations test applicants’ graph reading skills. When reading a graph, one must first ascertain the zero point on the vertical axis. Many errors occur when graph readers assume the zero value to be at the origin, when in fact it is not. Another common error occurs when the graph reader does not accurately determine the units of measurement on the horizontal and vertical axes. Educators agree that graph reading is an important skill that should be acquired before a student completes high school, but unfortunately this does not always happen. This paragraph best supports the statement that graph reading skills
A) are easily acquired.
B) are usually mastered by high school age.
C) require one to identify the zero value and the units of measure along each axis.
D) require a certain amount of background work in advanced mathematics.

51. The tragedies of war are not always confined to the time frame in which battles are fought. A widely known example is the side effects of Agent Orange, the chemical used to defoliate jungles in Vietnam. This herbicide was found to contain a lethal dioxin. The use of Agent Orange was discontinued due to a high rate of birth defects among infants in Vietnam. After the war, many veterans were found to have suffered ill effects from Agent Orange as well. This paragraph best supports the statement that Agent Orange
A) had immediate as well as long term negative effects on those exposed to it.
B) was a lethal poison used in chemical warfare.
C) has not been proven to be the cause of birth defects.
D) is manufactured from a lethal dioxin.
52. Many people think that Cyrano De Bergerac is but the romantic hero of Edmund Rostand’s play which also bears the name “Cyrano De Bergerac”. But, before the play immortalized the man and his nose, De Bergerac was a French author of plays and prose. He gave up a military career to satirize the society of his day in fantasies about voyages to the sun and the moon.
This paragraph best supports the statement that Cyrano De Bergerac was a
A) man of many varied talents.
B) romantic who made the writing of love poems his life’s work.
C) military man whose satires were posthumously published in Edmund Rostand’s play.
D) man who existed before Rostand’s play.

53. When it comes to employment exams, there are arguments both for and against test preparation. Some insist that such exams are aptitude tests for which one cannot study or prepare. However, the facts dispute this opinion. It has been repeatedly demonstrated that those who study exam content, learn test-taking tips, and practice with realistic sample tests do indeed score higher.
This paragraph best supports the statement that preparing for employment exams
A) is not beneficial.
B) guarantees one a job.
C) only helps in certain situations.
D) has been proven to improve scores.

54. People often complain about their jobs. These complaints may be about the job itself, about wages, about benefits, about managers, about coworkers, or about the commute. Those voicing these comments usually feel that they have no choice but to keep their unrewarding jobs. Others believe that we do have choices, that quality of life is more important than standard of living, and that life is too short to choose a demeaning career. These people feel that, even if one chooses a job with lesser wages or status, it can be more rewarding than a career that diminishes one’s quality of life.
This paragraph best supports the statement that when seeking employment, you should
A) always choose the job with the highest wages.
B) not accept a job if the commute is over thirty minutes.
C) consider how various aspects of the job will affect your quality of life.
D) get to know the manager first to see if you can get along with him or her.

55. Computer technology has dramatically improved today’s business operations. Many functions that were formerly tedious and expensive are now accomplished rapidly and efficiently. As a matter of fact, it is not unusual for a firm to be so dependent upon this technology that a computer system crash can almost put the firm out of business. To avoid such a disaster, experts recommend that critical computerized records be periodically backed-up and that businesses invest in redundant computer systems to fall back upon in the event that the main system crashes.
This paragraph best supports the statement that a business should
A) take steps to assure continued operations in the event of a computer crash.
B) not become dependent upon computers.
C) use computers only for certain non-sensitive functions.
D) not back-up computerized records unless its system crashes.
